Dear Fellow American:

To commemorate our nation's 200th birthday, Congress has authorized the minting of new reverse designs for the United States dollar, half dollar and quarter coins. The designs for these special coins were chosen in a national competition as a most appropriate expression of our country's heritage and achievement.

Advance orders for 3-coin sets of Proof Quality and/or Uncirculated Condition coins are being accepted now for delivery after July 4, 1975.

Dear Customer:

The enclosed check represents a refund of $3.00 on each of the three-piece 40% silver Bicentennial proof coin sets you ordered from the United States Mint. I hope the return of this money will help in some small way in the fight against inflation.

The lower price of $12.00 per set for the silver proof coins commemorating the 200th anniversary of American Independence is made possible through the planned introduction of a new automated system for the production of proof coins. The new breakthrough in automation will substantially increase production and enable the Mint to accept orders in unlimited quantities anytime through July 4, 1976.

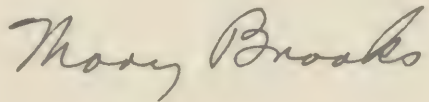

We are proud and happy to pass on to you lower production and packaging costs realized from new and faster production and packaging techniques. The newly designed coins in our Bicentennial silver sets are historic pieces and the only U.S. coins presently containing silver.

Congress has imposed a production limit of at least 45,000,000 silver Bicentennial coins. And our added production capability, together with the extended 18-month ordering period, will help toward reaching our goal of making both the proof and uncirculated Bicentennial silver sets available to every American wanting them.

America's First Medals

The United States Mint is reproducing in antique-finished pewter America's first medals, voted by the Continental Congress in grateful recognition of the men and the battles that changed the course of history, gave birth to a new nation and freedom and self-government to a people.

Ten medals comprise this historic series of medals that portray the decisive military victories in the War for Independence and the bold commanders who led the American Continental Army and Navy to the triumph of arms against the British that brought independence to America.

Most of the original medals were of gold and engraved and struck in France by the foremost medalists of the day. The reproductions, 1½" in diameter, are the first national medals to be produced in pewter and are being re-struck in celebration of America's Bicentennial. These medals will be enclosed in a see-through plastic capsule inserted in a case surrounded by red flocking. The case is approximately 3¼" by 2¾" with the Great Seal appearing on the cover. It is not only a holder for America's first medals but also a self-display case in which both sides of the medals can be viewed.

The first two medals of the series are being offered as a unit at $10.00 and may not be purchased separately. Each individual may purchase a maximum of five units and orders should be received no later than March 31, 1974. Anyone who purchases the current offering will receive an order card when the next items in the series become available.

The ten-medal series will be completed by July 4, 1976, and the first two are available:

Department of the Treasury / Bureau of the Mint / 55 Mint Street / San Francisco, California 94175

"WASHINGTON BEFORE BOSTON,"

the first medal authorized by the Founding Fathers. It was struck in gold for presentation to General George Washington for the successful siege and acquisition of Boston from the British in 1776. Forcing the British from Boston and gaining control of the city's harbor was America's first real military victory in the War for Independence. The medal was prepared by Pierre Simon Benjamin Duvivier.

GENERAL HORATIO GATES

is honored on the second medal, first struck in gold and awarded in commemoration of the three triumphant engagements in 1777—the Battles of Bennington, Fort Stanwix (Fort Schuyler) and Saratoga—which defeated British plans to isolate New England by occupying the Hudson Valley. Engraved by Nicolas Marie Gatteaux.

MAJOR HENRY ("LIGHT HORSE HARRY") LEE.

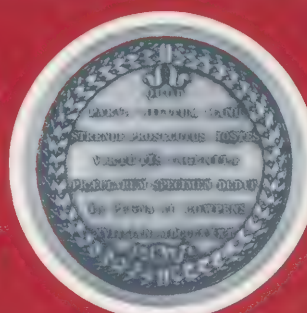

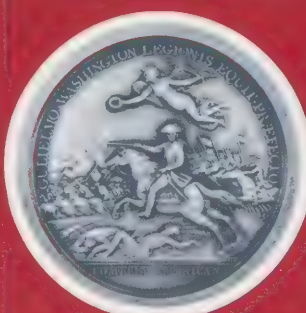

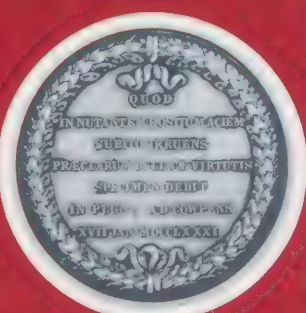

granted a gold medal for his daring pre-dawn assault in 1779 "with a handful of men" at Paulus Hook, a British-occupied fort in what is now Jersey City, New Jersey. He captured 158 prisoners and safely retreated after the successful completion of his mission. Designed by Joseph Wright, the first engraver of the United States Mint.

GENERAL DANIEL MORGAN,

presented a gold medal for leading his troops to the brilliant tactical victory at the Cowpens in South Carolina in 1781. The victory ended a bitter two-year period of defeat and persecution in the struggle for independence and brought renewed spirit to the fight. Engraved by Augustin Dupre.

GENERAL NATHANIEL GREENE

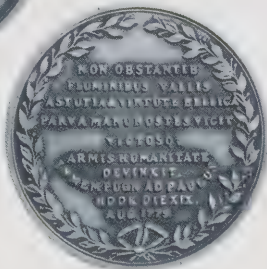

received a gold medal for the Battle of Eutaw Springs, South Carolina, in 1781, "in which with a force inferior in numbers to that of the enemy, he obtained a most signal victory." Eutaw Springs was the last important engagement in the southern theater. Engraved by Augustin Dupre.

CAPTAIN JOHN PAUL JONES

received a gold medal for brilliantly commanding French and American ships off the British coast in 1779. In one of the most celebrated battles of naval history, Jones ran the bow of the U.S. frigate BONHOMME RICHARD into the stern of the SERAPIS. The battle raged at point-blank range. With the RICHARD afire, Jones kept firing until the British captain struck his colors. Engraved by Augustin Dupre.

America's First Medals

The United States Mint is proud to offer the third unit in a series of medals first authorized by the Continental Congress

Major Henry ("Light Horse Harry") Lee

Major Lee was granted a gold medal for his daring pre-dawn assault in 1779 "with a handful of men" at Paulas Hook, a British occupied fort in what is now Jersey City, New Jersey. He captured 158 prisoners and safely retreated after the successful completion of his mission. Designed by Joseph Wright, the first engraver of the United States Mint.

General Daniel Morgan

General Morgan was presented a gold medal for leading his troops to the brilliant tactical victory at the Cowpens in South Carolina in 1781. The victory ended a bitter two-year period of defeat and persecution in the struggle for independence, and brought renewed spirit to the fight. Engraved by Augustin Dupre.

Dear Mint Customer,

This historic series of medals, first authorized by the Continental Congress to honor heroes and battles of the Revolution, is now being reproduced by the United States Mint in antique-finish pewter.

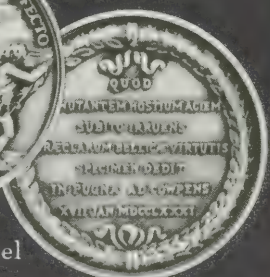

The series is being offered in five two-medal units. These two medals represent the third unit, priced at $10.00, and may not be purchased individually.

If you have not ordered the first two units in the series, there will be an opportunity to do so later.

Please see the enclosed order card, and, if you wish any further information, please address inquiries to: Bureau of the Mint/ 55 Mint Street/San Francisco, CA, 94175. Dear Mint Customer:

If you have not already received your Bicentennial Uncirculated Silver Coin Sets, you should be receiving them in the next few weeks. If you have ordered Bicentennial Proof Sets, we must ask your patience, as the production of proof coins is a more time-consuming process. We at the Mint are quite proud of all of these newly designed coins and sincerely hope that you will be pleased with them.

In authorizing the production of these sets Congress intended that they be widely distributed as official mementoes of the Bicentennial. For this reason Congress directed that a minimum of 45 million Bicentennial coins (15 million sets) be produced. I would like to take this opportunity to announce a program that will make the remaining Bicentennial Uncirculated Sets available to an even greater number of Americans. The Mint has asked the cooperation of banks and other financial institutions in offering these sets over-the-counter to the public. Bulk sales in lots of 50 sets will be offered to banks, credit unions, clubs or individuals at $7.00 per set. THIS PROGRAM APPLIES TO 3-COIN BICENTENNIAL UNCIRCULATED SETS ONLY. This price reduction (the individual set price is $9) is made possible by handling the sets in lots of 50, thereby decreasing order handling costs and reducing postage. The $2.00 savings so passed on will allow banks and others to cover their costs of offering this service to their customers.

If for any reason you would wish to return your presently held 3-coin Bicentennial Uncirculated Sets to us, we will be happy to refund the purchase price. THIS POLICY APPLIES ONLY TO 3-COIN BICENTENNIAL UNCIRCULATED SETS. The entire order must be returned, we cannot make refunds of partial returns. Just fill out the enclosed card and return it with your sets by September 30, 1975 to:

Bureau of the Mint
55 Mint Street
San Francisco, Ca. 94175

For your protection, we recommend you return the sets by registered mail.

We invite you to participate in our Bulk Sale Program if you wish to purchase in lots of 50 sets. Should you want a smaller number of additional sets you may place another order with us at $9.00 per set, or visit a bank in your local area participating in the program.

We look forward to serving you in the future.

Sincerely,
